NOTE

ALBERTA UNITY MOVEMENT

STONY PLAIN CONSTITUENCY

What Is With Alberta?

Out in the Drayton Valley area where the propane comes from, it costs $5.50 per 100 lbs.
In the Fort Saskatchewan district it costs $3.50 per hundred lbs.
In Fort Saskatchewan fertilizer costs $20.00 per ton.
In Drayton Valley the same fertilizer costs $30.00 per ton.

Can you add to these? What is wrong with our Alberta government?

Oh, we might ask what is right with it. Join the ALBERTA UNITY MOVEMENT and give your district the representation it deserves. Share in Alberta's fabulous wealth. Put the boot to Alberta's hideaway millionaires.

Remember that the Provincial Government controls all the Natural Resources in the Province of Alberta. The Stony Plain Constituency is big, big in size, big in wealth, but with a little effort, we have always had our share come too late and too late. We ask all the citizens of Stony Plain to elect someone to put the welfare of their district ahead of party politics by voting ALBERTA UNITY.

Just how good, (or how bad) have our Stony Plain MLA's been these last twenty years? There are 65 districts in Alberta, each one represented by one elected representative, ostensibly elected to see that our government is run in a modern, hard-headed business-like way.

Each MLA fights fiercely and loyally to see that his district gets its proper share. Each MLA, with a mind of his own, ready at the drop of an adjective to put his party second and to put the good of his electorate first. Is that what you see in Alberta?

You will some day, bring that day close by voting Alberta Unity Movement, in Stony Plain Constituency which includes: Stony Plain, Spruce Grove, Longview, Drayton Valley, Camrose, Tomahawk, Sids Beach, Earfords, Rocky Rapids, Violet Grove, Garfield, Friendship, Magnolia, Royal Valley, Moon Lake, Gairdard, Duffield, Highvale, Knop-Hill, Woodman, Golden Spike, Bridgman, Lethbridge, Wainwright, Carleton Place, Wainwright, Langford Park, Kapakwila, Park Court, Sandstone, Horden, Hatch Corner, Ashburn and Burnsville.

A First Rate Province deserves a First Rate Government. Thousands of Albertans were raised out of their homes and into the potholes, last year, right to stop this and avoid it.

Join Alberta Unity Movement TODAY and protect your TOMORROW.

WITH THE NEW DISCOVERIES OF OIL FIELDS IN ALBERTA, IN THE HONE TO DISTANT FUTURE ALBERTA WILL BE A TAX FREE PROVINCE AND A DEBT FREE PROVINCE. WHO HAS HE' BEEN TRYING TO FOOL?

SINCE THAT TIME TAXES HAVE ROCKETED UPWARDS AT AN ALARMING RATE.

HOWEVER, THE INCOME OF LARGE OIL COMPANIES HAVE CONTINUED UPWARD AT A MUCH FASTER RATE.

THE PROPERTY OWNERS OF ALBERTA HAVE WAITED FOR THIS PARADISE TO ARRIVE. YES: THEY HAVE WAITED TOO LONG.

WE HAVE CREATED TOO MANY BIG SHOTS OUT OF OUR NATURAL RESOURCES AT THE EXPENSE OF OUR PEOPLE.

IT IS NOW TIME TO STOP THIS RHODUS AND TRULY GIVE ALBERTANS A TAX FREE PROVINCE.

JOIN NOW! Make Alberta a TAX FREE PROVINCE!

The Chapel Hour Who's New?

The Unquenchable Light

By Rev. John S. Bonnell

THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD

Taken from the Family Herald

The light still shines in the darkness, and darkness has never put it out. John 1:9.

On the eve of the last week we saw Edward Grey, Britain's foreign minister said, "The light is going out all over Europe, and we shall not see them lighted again in our time."

Light has always been the symbol of freedom, justice and righteousness. It is a word especially applicable to Jesus, who himself said, "I am the light of the world; he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."

The incarnation of Christ is described as follows: "In him appeared life and this life was the light of mankind." A parallel to these words which equates light and holiness has been found in the Dead Sea scrolls. It is said, "who was the leader of the 'sons of darkness' is called and 'all the spirits of his lot... for they are the lot of darkness but the lot of God belongs to eternal light.'"

Christ came into a world of darkness where the old paths were offered little hope to men. One of the gods, Mithras, said that men were warlike and bloody-minded Jupiter was cruel and Saturn, Heracles, Hercules and Apollo were not much better.

The people "as in darkness" because of the inadequacy of the human soul to cope. Many millions, branded like cattle, lived in various parts of the empire. There were no hospitals or orphanages, and children and old people died like flies.

Concep's painting, "The Holy Night," is another example of the use of light. Its remarkable feature is that all the light in the cave that reached the mother and child comes from Christ. This extraordinary light gives the painting its power. The masterpiece is a paraphrase of the aged poet Dante's prophecy.

HOME & SCHOOL

The meeting will be held on Monday May 27 at 8:00 P.M. in the Fellowship Church auditorium. The new group will be introduced. Plans will be made for the track and field meet which will take place on the 31st of June. We would like you parents who helped with this event last year to be present at this meeting. Your help was most grateful appreciated last year.

Reported by Mrs. Artie.

A MINISTER HOOBY WANTED

As one of the toughest tasks a church faces is the wise choice of a wise minister. A number of the Official Board endorsing this petition freely state their opinion. He'd watched the Federal Relations Committee reject applicant after applicant for some time, aligned or otherwise. It was time for a bit of understanding on the part of the committee. So he stood up and read a letter purporting to be from another applicant:

"Gentlemen:

"Understanding your pulpits is women, I should like to apply for the position. I have many qualifications. Some say I'm a good organizer. I've been a leader most places I've been.

"I am over 30 years of age. I have never preached in one place for more than three years. In some places I have left town after my work has caused riots and disturbances.

"I must admit I have been in jail three or four times, but not because of any real wrongdoing.

"My health is not too good, although I still get a great deal done.

"The churches I have preached in have been small, although located in several large cities.

"I've not gotten along too well with religious leaders in towns where I have preached. In fact, some have threatened me and even attacked me physically.

"I am not too good at keeping records. I have been known to forget when I have kept.

"However, if you can use me, I shall do my best for you."

The board member looked over the congregation. "Well, what do you think? Shall we hire him?"

The good church folks were silent. Hire an uneducated, trouble-making, and untrained, untrained? Was the board member crazy? Who signed that application? Who had such colossal nerve?

The board member eyed them all keenly before he answered: "It's signed, the Apostle Paul."

TOASTMISTRESS CLUB

"Different Types of Speeches" was the theme of the recent Pexbina Club meeting. President Mrs. J. Tyler, presided in the chair during the business portion of the meeting.

Toastmistress, Mrs. P. Belliveau called on four speakers for impromptu speeches. Mrs. I. Kemp, Mrs. L. Brown, Mrs. J. Tyler, and Mrs. L. Mondel gave their respective talks.

Toastmistress, Mrs. H. Macleure introduced the prepared speaker of the evening, Mrs. D. Macleure. Mrs. Macleure recalled her many childhood memories in British Columbia.

General evaluator was Mrs. L. Brown and member critic was Mrs. A. Meleux.

Meditation

Give unto me, I beg, the wisdom to seek Thy guidance all the day long. O my Father, in good times and grave; so that when I desperately need Thee, not only will Thou be there, but I will know where to look. This I ask in the name of Thy Son, Jesus Christ, Amen.

COOKING MAGIC

Tasted Recipes and Meal Planning Ideas Prepared for Pexbina News Advertiser Readers by the Home Service Department of Northern Ltd. (Edmonton, Alberta).

Japanese, tasty lunchbox and appetizer dishes on your own kitchen. A complete meal can be prepared quickly and with few preparation dishes and utensils.

ITALIAN PANCAKE STEAKS: Sauté... 1 cup chopped onion in 1/4 cup bacon drippings. Combine... 1 lb. ground beef, 1 egg, salt. 1/4 cup paprika. 1/4 cup catsup.

Shape meat mixture into 8 flat patties. Top 8 patties with sliced onion, that with another patty, pressing sides of patty together to seal. Wrap each double patty with 1 slice of Swiss. 1 onion bacon with toothpick. Place on cold broiler grid. Broil 3 inches from low gas flame 10 min. Turn and continue to broil 10 minutes. If the control is turned to "broil", that means you are using the full gas burner and the above time should be reduced.

STEAK BOLL WITH FROZEN PEAS: Brown 1 can mushrooms lightly in butter or margarine. Place carefully onto 6 cube steaks, folding each steak over mushrooms and bringing two edges together without overlapping. Tie with string or fatten with skewers. Cook with melted butter. Arrange snug down center of broiler grid with frozen french fries on either side. Place in broiler so meat is 4 - inches below flame. Broil about 15 minutes, turn broil with butter and broil 5 minutes. Place 1 mixed vegetables in bottom of broiler pan.

GRILLED PINEAPPLE CAKE: 1 cup butter or margarine. 1/2 cup drained, drained, crushed pineapple. 1/2 cup desiccated coconut. 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed. 1/4 cup chopped walnuts. 8 - inch square pan.

Melt butter, add pineapple and melt three ingredients blend well. Spread lightly on hot or cold cake. Place low under broiler and broil slowly until bubbling and light brown. Serve slightly warm.

AN EVER PRESENT MENACE

This is the time of year when every farmer should give serious thought to blackleg prevention. Preventive inoculations are the only defence against this ever present menace.

Vital statistics and reports from Veterinary Service Laboratory show that blackleg and its related diseases are among the main cattle killers in this province. Blackleg is caused by a germ which is a member of a group forming group responsible for other equally deadly diseases. These are malignant oedema, colic, kidney and lock-jaw. The last mentioned disease is rare in Alberta.

Blackleg usually strikes without warning. Often the first indication is one or more young animals lying dead in the pasture. Incidentally it is no hindrance to a breeder to ask him to give his opinion on the cause of death because he could easily take the blackleg germ back to his own herd on his boots.

A cattle owner should not perform a post-mortem himself if there is any suspicion of blackleg. A veterinarian should be summoned.

ed immediately because if blackleg or any of its allied diseases are the cause of death the soil could be badly contaminated during the post-mortem and remain so for a long time. Also there is also the danger of human becoming infected during any post-mortem. This happened during last year's anthrax outbreak in Buffalo.

If the veterinarian diagnoses blackleg, at least on the premises, two years and under, should be given immediate protective inoculation. When blackleg occurs in a herd which has never been vaccinated it is wise to inoculate cattle of all ages. A blackleg and malignant oedema bacteria is the one recommended for Alberta cattle.

Deep burial or burning the carcass with oil sand and lime are two of the most practical methods of disposing of blackleg victims. Other animals should be kept away from the carcass and the whole area covered with slack lime after it has been disposed of.

Protection against blackleg is relatively easy and inexpensive. A little time spent on vaccinating young animals every year can save a great deal of time, money and worry later in the season.

For the man who has group life insurance

You are fortunate in having a sound foundation for family security. But for your family's sake it's wise to check group benefits against total family needs. For example—group plan benefits usually terminate at a specific age such as 65. Men, however, are living longer these days and the many wives who outlive their husbands demonstrate the need for protection beyond the limiting age. Permanent insurance gives this lifetime protection plus the extra advantage of a built-in savings fund. This fund can be used in many ways; for example in emergencies to ease the impact of a financial crisis or to meet the expenses of a son's college education. Group insurance is doing a wonderful job of providing hundreds of thousands of Canadian families with basic security (for as long as it remains in force). More and more families are finding that it's only when they combine group with permanent insurance can they be sure of complete coverage. If you'd like to review your situation, just ask the Man From Manufacturers. You can rely on his friendly and competent counsel.

Would you rather have your electric utilities collect

...or pay them?

Last year Alberta's free enterprise electric utilities paid over six million dollars in federal taxes. Almost 50% of this came back to Alberta for roads, schools, hospitals and other services.

It is important to remember that although government-owned utilities do not pay federal taxes, someone has to pay them.

Wouldn't you rather have your electric utilities pay taxes?—while serving you at rates carefully controlled by the provincial government.

OUR PROGRAM

Our swimming pool, which is one of the many departments of the Drayton Valley Recreation Program is very fortunate in being able to offer a wide range of water activities to all members and neighbours of our community during this summer season.

1. Learn-to-swim classes
Preschool-age children, 4-5 years
For the preschool children's classes one of the child's parents will be needed, who will be given full preparation before every lesson. The parents will give the instructions to some extent to his or her child under the supervision of a qualified instructor. This method has been found to be very effective because children of this age group have confidence in their parents and need a period to become acquainted with the instructor. This age group, furthermore, is not able to follow instructions as readily as school children normally do. The loss of temperature of preschool age children is great. The presence of a parent makes it possible to take the child under a warm or hot shower and return later for instructions, something, which could not be accomplished otherwise.

School children, 6-14 years
This age group will be girls and boys mixed and divided into the following class-levels according to existing swimming skills: Beginners, Junior, Intermediate, Seniors.

Adult classes, 14 years to 60 years
There will be classes for adults only, for men only, as well as mixed classes according to the individuals' preference. The following class-levels according to swimming skills will be offered: Beginners, Junior, Intermediate, Seniors.

There will be swimming instructor-classes available for interested children as well as for physically handicapped of all age groups.

Canadian Red Cross Society instructions will be given in conjunction with swimming lessons according to the various levels. These instructions will comprise the following: Water Safety, First Aid, Rescue, Artificial Respiration, Emergency Situations. Upon successful completion of the learn-to-swim courses the following awards will be obtained: The Beginner's Badge, The Junior Certificate, The Intermediate Certificate, The Senior Certificate.

Petrina comes from St. John's, Ontario and is spending the summer in Drayton Valley with her sister and brother-in-law. Russo holds a Water Safety Instructor's Certificate as well as a Senior American Red Cross Life Saving qualification. Petrina is presently an education student at Oklahoma State University.

BOB HEYLAND
Another local boy who will take on lifeguarding duties, Bob has had some Red Cross training and recently completed his M.C.A. Swimming Instructor Course.

JANE SCHOEN
Jane will be our pool cashier during the coming season. She has just completed her first year in education at the U. of A. A graduate of Frank Macdonald High School Jane travelled to Ottawa in 1961 in the Rotary sponsored Adventure in Citizenship.

2. Awards of the Canadian Royal Life Saving Society.
Preparatory courses and examinations will be available which lead to the following awards: The Elementary Certificate, The Intermediate Certificate, The Bronze Medalist, The Bar to the Bronze Medalist, The Bronze Cross, The Bar to the Bronze Cross, The Award of Merit, Bar to Award of Merit, 7th & Distinction Award.

3. Competitive:
Racing (Swimming), Diving, Synchronized, and Water Polo, Instruction, Practices, and Games and Competitions will be available under the guidance of our expert trainer, Mr. Peter Castano.

4. Recreational Swimming.
There will be ample of recreational swimming. All programs except Competitive and Recreational Swimming will commence in the first week of July. Classes for children will be conducted in the morning and in the afternoon.

Adult instructions will be given during the day. Most classes, however, will take place in the evening for all those who are working during the daytime.

Instructions will be given by qualified Canadian and American Red Cross instructors their supervised assistance. Each learn-to-swim program will consist of a 12 lesson course.

Early registration will be appreciated and is advisable as there is an accommodation for only 350 - 400 people in the total learn-to-swim program.

Kindly obtain and return your application card through Mr. M.J. Gormley, Recreation Director at the Town Hall.

Enjoy a Healthy and Happy Swimming Season.

PEMBINA DISTRICT COUNCIL BOY SCOUTS OF CANADA

At a recent meeting of the Pembina District Council of the Boy Scouts of Canada, the following slate of officers were elected for 1968-69.

Pembina District plans for 1968 include: leader training courses, a scout camporee and the formation of a patrol leader's Patrol-in-Council.

Plans are being finalized now for the Pembina District Camporee to be held the week-end of May 17-19. An excellent committee has been secured near Wilkwood and about 60 scouts from Wilkwood, Maykenth, Sanguin, Wilkwood and Drayton Valley, and their leaders, are expected to be under canvas.

ROTARY SPEAKER

In his talk to the assembled Rotarians and their ladies in the Carleton Room Mr. Uddin spoke of his native Pakistan. He gave five reasons the country has perhaps not made more progress than it has: 1. Illiteracy, 2. Lack of Progress, 3. Religion, 4. The division of the two provinces of Pakistan, separated as they are by some 1100 miles and, 5. The language division. He said the reason for the Pakistani state was that Muslims had gotten together to try to build a society where Islamic principles could be put into operation. It had been hoped that the two widely separated provinces would be bound together by their common tie of religion but it was found that their separation was causing economic and cultural differences.

While English is the official language, there are many native languages in two provinces and these too, serve as a barrier against a perfect union. The speaker said he felt if the problem of Kashmir, which both Pakistan and India claim, could be settled amicably, then the two nations could present a united front against Communist China which is menacing their northern borders.

In conclusion Mr. Uddin said that the Boy Scouts of Pakistan are making much progress against the problems confronting them.

A boy applying for a job at a butcher shop asked: "What's the pay?"

"Five dollars a week. Can you dress a chicken?"
"Not on five dollars a week."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Editor:

We are trying to locate former members of our local regiment and would appreciate your help. Hoping that there may be some of our veterans among the readers of your newspaper, I wonder if you would be so kind as to publish the following from at the first opportunity.

Yours very truly,

CALLING ALL LORNE SCOTS!

Members of the Lorne Scots are cordially invited to attend the presentation of the colors ceremony and festivities which will be held at Caledon, Ontario, in October, commencing on the 1st of the month. A representative of the Lorne Scots will officiate at the presentation.

Many members of the Peel, Dufferin and Huron County (P.D. & H.) Regiment served with other Canadian and Commonwealth units and are known to have dispersed across Canada and to other countries following demobilization in 1945.

If you are an ex-Lorne Scots yourself, or know the whereabouts of one, please drop a line as soon as possible to that we may extend a formal invitation. "Status Lt. Col. E. F. Conner, Commanding Officer, Communications should be addressed to the General Chairman Presentation Committee, Lorne Scots Regiment, The Armouries, 112 Chapel St., Brampton, Ontario.

The Regiment's new colors include Battle Honors won in the Second World War and are in addition to Honours achieved in the First World War by predecessor units which were amalgamated to form the present regiment.

The colors will be consecrated by Lt. Col. J. R. Miller, Director of Chaplain Services (P.), who will be accompanied by the Right Reverend F. H. Wilkinson, Bishop of Toronto.

The October program, now in preparation, will feature a Guard of Honour for The Queen's representative on 8th of October, a men's dinner for Officers and Sergeants NCO's on 9th of October, Regimental Ball for Officers, Senior WO's and WCO's and all ranks 10th of October, and the presentation on 11th of October.

The Unit will be in full dress uniform for the presentation and the pipes and drums and military (Drum and Band) are being outlined in every detail of ceremonial uniforms and accoutrements. A detachment of Veterans may be included in the parade.

The girl placed happily at the pinstriped youth who had asked for a dance.

"I'm sorry," she replied nastily, "but I never dance with a child."

Unsurprisingly, the young man bowed deeply.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "I didn't realize your condition."

DRAYTON VALLEY HIGHLIGHTS

By Edith Deby

Mr. and Mrs. MacMillan have moved to Red Deer. Both Bob and Marian have made many friends in this district and will be greatly missed.

Mr. Hubert Davidson is resting in Drayton Valley Hospital following surgery. He hopes to be well enough to go home in about ten days.

Mr. Brando, of Violet Grove, had her hand badly hurt when she caught her fingers in the power mower. She was in Drayton Valley Hospital for treatment for a short while.

Mr. Anderson, constituency Chairman for the Women's Institute, was a Drayton Valley visitor on Monday evening. She was accompanied by Mrs. Vinyrka. They attended the dinner meeting and Mrs. Anderson spoke to the W.I. members.

From Barcelona they went on to what was their real destination in Europe, the Eternal City, Rome. Here they saw art treasures, historic ruins and monuments all more beyond measure. They visited the Vatican City and the Sistine Chapel where they saw a beautiful painting by Michelangelo. The historic Appian Way where tradition says the apostle Paul walked on his way to his martyrdom by beheading.

Apries May is now partially covered with asphalt, but much has been preserved in its original condition. Margo says that in Rome they had such a sense of living both in the past and in the present. They saw historic "Frescoes" and heard which runs through Rome and the Catacombs where millions of Christians are buried. The ancient Pantheon is now a church, it has been called the most perfect of all classical monuments in Rome. It has a ceiling 140 feet in height.

From Rome the Malmes went on to Amsterdam. Here they were privileged to see a Van Gogh painting.

AIR CADETS

AIMS OF THE PROGRAM

To encourage Air Cadets to develop the attributes of good citizenship.
To stimulate in Air Cadets an interest in aviation and space technology.
To help Air Cadets develop a high standard of physical fitness, mental alertness and discipline.

The following paragraphs outline some of the extracurricular opportunities available to all members of the Royal Canadian Air Cadets.

SQUADRON TRAINING

The main reason for the success and popularity of the Air Cadets program is the week-by-week training given by squadrons all across Canada. Air Cadets must once or twice a week during the school year and engage in a kind of activities that appeal to every young Canadian. Under the guidance of expert instructors they study the fascinating lore of aviation, acquire new skills and develop priceless qualities of leadership.

SUMMER CAMPS

Each summer, thousands of Air Cadets attend summer camp at R.C.A.F. Stations spaced across the country. Of two weeks' duration, the camps feature healthful recreation in the open air, plus advanced instruction included in the Air Cadets syllabus of training. Transportation, summer clothing, meals and medical care are provided without expense to the Cadet. Cadets are selected for camps on the basis of regular attendance and good service with the squadron.

AIR EXPERIENCE

A real thrill for every Air Cadet is the first familiarization flight in a modern service aircraft. These flights are not just "joy rides" but are arranged so as to impart cadets in flight-planning, map-reading, navigation, and other aviation skills. Familiarization flights are a regular feature of the summer camp program and a coveted reward for outstanding achievement in sports and studies.

ADDITIONAL TRAINING

Each year 200 cadets from across Canada are selected for a seven week Senior Leaders Course designed to prepare young men for future positions of responsibility both within the Air Cadet movement and out of it. The course offers instruction in such subjects as effective speaking, management procedures, instrumental techniques, etc. Successful graduates receive a training bonus of $100 for their summer work.

PILOT'S COURSES

Over 350 flying scholarships are awarded annually by the Air Cadet League and R.C.A.F. to cadets who can meet the physical and academic requirements laid at flying clubs and schools across the country. The scholarship courses provide actual flying and ground instruction leading to the receipt of a private pilot license and the coveted Air Cadet "wing" badge.

CONTINUED NEXT WEEK.

The proud owner of a factory was showing his friend around.

"How many people work here?" the friend asked.

"I'd say about half," the owner replied.

WESTERN

Helping to Build The Modern West

In Quest of Truth

By REV. JOHN R. NIELSEN, B.A., B.D.

With this issue Western Weekly begins its second year of publication. During this first year it has grown from an idea in the minds of a few men to a lusty, sprawling, giant. Congratulations!

Together with WW, In Quest of Truth celebrates its first birthday. This feature has appeared in every issue to date. It has proved to be very popular. It has further vindicated the belief of the editors and the columnist that a sober and objective presentation of Biblical truth is attractive to Western Canadians.

OVERVIEW OF PAST YEAR

During the past year, In Quest of Truth has discussed many religious topics. It started out with a study of various Biblical words and concepts. Such concepts as love, grace, faith, and righteousness were studied according to their original Hebrew and Greek background and their usage in Scripture.

From time to time the pace was varied. A study of topics was undertaken: the Bible of Jesus, Faith-healing, Thanksgiving, Prayer, and the like. The festivals of the Church came under consideration: Advent, Christmas, Lent, and Easter.

With the issue of October 24, 1962, a further new thread was woven into the series. At that time a study of the various religious denominations of the Christian Church was begun. That issue contained a look at the Eastern Orthodox Church. Subsequent issues have carried articles on the Roman Catholic, the Lutheran, and the Anglican communions.

Thus In Quest of Truth has ranged over a wide field. It has sought to help its readers in their quest of truth.

READER RESPONSE

In this first year of existence, In Quest of Truth has received many letters. A very few have been from individuals who disagreed with the material presented. Another few have been from those who held some strange and eccentric religious ideas.

By far the majority, however, have been from friends who warmly welcomed the articles into their homes. A few clergymen have written that they were using various articles as source material for their Bible Classes. Many people have written, or declared personally, that they are clipping the articles to save. Some have said that they are sending them to their relatives who are unfortunate enough to live where Western Weekly is not available. One person even clipped some articles and sent them to a relative of the author.

In short, the response has been tremendous and very gratifying. At times, due to the press of other duties, the author has considered giving up the series. However, at such times it has been a personal and appreciative fan letter that has encouraged him to continue.

EDITORIAL POLICY

Perhaps this is the time and place to say a few words concerning the editorial policy governing In Quest of Truth. And such a policy has been hammered out, and has governed the articles to date.

On the negative side, the articles have deliberately been kept free from any denominational bias (as far as that is possible).

able). It has not been the author's intention to promote any particular denomination. Nor has he had any axe to grind.

On the positive side, the articles are presented to help people to a better understanding of the Bible. They seek to provide an objective study of Bible Truth. They have, therefore, been slanted along a scholarly rather than doctrinal line. The aim has been to encourage people to read, and better to understand their Bibles.

A second aim of the page has been to help people to establish a Bible reading program in the home. Toward this end the Guide "Light For Your Way" has been made available at cost.

PROJECTION FOR FUTURE

What of the future? Where will In Quest of Truth go?

Basically the series will continue in the same vein as in the past. Word and topic studies will continue. Articles are slated on flesh, covenant, apostle, God, sanctity, and the like. The series on the denominations of Christendom will continue with articles on the Baptist, United, Presbyterian, and other Churches.

Various new series will be undertaken as space permits. One such future new series will be the Ten Commandments. Another will be biographies of prominent Biblical personalities. Still others might be: a systematic study of Biblical books; a study of Old Testament prophecy and New Testament fulfillment.

The future of In Quest of Truth looks exciting. God-willing we will have many enjoyable moments together.

QUESTIONS SOLICITED

In this second year, we would also like to branch out in a different direction. Many readers have requested us to offer a question and answer service.

This also we can do. If you have any questions concerning Bible interpretation or meaning, we invite you to submit them. As many as possible will be used as a basis for articles. All questions will receive personal answers. If you wish a personal answer only, please indicate this in your letter. All letters marked For Personal Answer Only will be kept in strictest confidence.

Send your questions to In Quest of Truth, care of this paper; or, directly to the Western Weekly, Box 969, Ponoka. There will be no charge for this service.

In order to make In Quest of Truth even better in the coming years, we ask for your comments and suggestions. Write us what you would like to see discussed, or find of little interest. Write and let us know how we may improve, and help you even more. Or just write, even if you have no suggestions or requests. Keep those letters rolling in. Only by your comments can we serve you even more fully and properly.

BIBLE READING GUIDE

The new Bible reading guide "Light For Your Way" for 1963 is now available. This Guide takes you through the entire New Testament in one year. Readers may receive their copy by writing to: Bible Reading Guide, Box 669, Ponoka, Alberta. Please enclose ten cents.

Animal Transplant Experiment Puts B.C. Furbearer In U.S.

By RAYMOND THOMPSON

Illustrated by Drew Drasher

The Fisher, a valuable furbearer, is apparently extinct in the western United States. Eleven of these animals, live-trapped in British Columbia this past winter, were transplanted in Oregon's Cascade Mountains in a restoration effort by the Oregon Game Commission.

The Fisher, known also as the "Pekan" and "Fisher Marten", was never plentiful in the Cascade Mountains, at least within the present century. It belongs to the same family as the weasel and is the largest of that species with the exception of the Wolverine.

It is the only wild animal that can outsmart the porcupine without being stuck full of porcupine needles or quills.

Western foresters maintain that porcupines are doing extensive damage to the forests by cutting down many of the smaller trees and often damaging larger pine and fir, stunting their growth. It is the hope of the Oregon Game Commission that the Fisher recently restored to former natural haunts of their ancestors will thrive in the Cascade Mountains, and help control the porcupine.

DELIVERED BY HELICOPTER

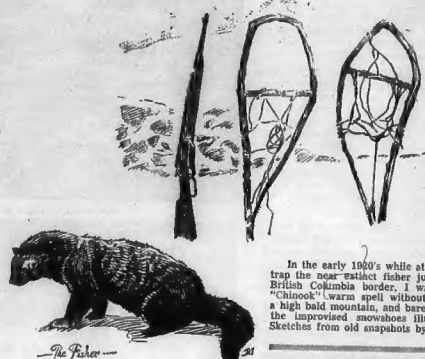

British Columbia trappers delivered the eleven Fisher to Oregon Game Commission biologists at Kamloops, B.C., in individual crates and the animals eventually reached their destination by helicopter, landing on a frozen alpine lake. Co-operating with the Oregon Game Commission were the U.S. Forest Service and the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company in this "bring back the Fisher" project.

The habits of the Fisher are quite similar to those of the marten. They readily climb trees and can run a squirrel down if the smaller animal does not escape by climbing out on a limb that will not hold a Fisher. The Fisher feeds on mice, rabbits, squirrels, woodrats and of course the porcupine and they are not averse to destroying the nest of a wild grouse or killing the adult birds if they can outwit them.

The Fisher is not too well known and naturalists have disagreed widely on its habits, and in particular the gestation period which originally was claimed to be approximately the same as the mink. In the 1939 issue of FUR TRADE JOURNAL OF CANADA, Doctor Cameron stated that the gestation period for the Fisher was almost a year, or around 350 days. This new theory was put into breeding practice with some success in producing young. However, in the 30 years following Doctor Cameron's findings, there has been little genuine progress in breeding the Fisher on fur farms. Probably this is due to the fact that the Fisher in the wild state was never a plentiful animal.

FISHER IS RARE

In a chart published by the U.S. Government in 1906, entitled "Geographic Distribution of Furbearing Animals of North America," the Fisher is listed as being numerous in only one state — Alaska. In the states of Idaho, Maine, Michigan, New Hampshire, Oregon, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin, the Fisher is merely shown as "scarce animal." In Canada, the Fisher is not listed by provinces, but merely "in sections only." Since the publication of that report, the Fisher is no doubt extinct in many of the states mentioned above.

As late as 1925, this writer saw Fisher tracks in the San Polli Mountains of eastern Washington, only a few miles south of the British Columbia border. The Oregon Game Commission reports the last Fisher sighted in that state in 1946, or 15 years ago.

The oldest record we have of Fisher production is from a Hudson Bay Company fur sales in London in the year 1873. During the March and September sales, 3,322 Fisher pelts were sold as compared to almost 60,000 marten furs. This shows a ratio of almost 20 to one in favor of the marten, indicating that almost a hundred years ago the Fisher was never plentiful.

Very few fur auction sales either in Canada or the United States now list the Fisher in their sales' reports. We have no breakdown of the number of Fisher trapped in the United States or Canada except in an over-all raw fur skin production report for both countries. The raw fur season of 1939 and 1900 produced 7600 Fisher pelts. For the next three following years, there was a gradual increase; but from 1903-1904 on there was a sharp drop.

In contrast, the wolverine raw fur catch for five years, dating from 1900, was only 8350 skins in all of the United States and Canada. We have no figures on the number of wolverines compared to the numbers of Fisher taken recently in the United States and Canada, but from scattered reports, we feel certain that the wolverine has withstood the passing of time much better than the Fisher.

In the wild state, the Fisher does not breed every year. I have kept records over a period of years in the Canadian Wilderness and long ago reached the conclusion that the Fisher is not a prolific or even an annual breeder. It will indeed be interesting to see how the Oregon Game Commission's experiment progresses.

In the early 1900's while attempting to live trap the near-extinct fisher just south of the British Columbia border, I was caught in a "Chinook" warm spell without snowshoes on a high bald mountain, and barely escaped with the improvised snowshoes illustrated above. Biggest Science Library: These tiny containers hold a million secrets. They are part of 125 miles of microfilm, representing 75,000 volumes of scientific literature unavailable in any other form, housed in Britain's National Lending Library of Science and Technology near the city of York, England. The library — the biggest in Western Europe — is primarily concerned with postal requests for books, and a conveyor belt system cuts delays and speeds books to appropriate dispatch points. Thus all requests can be delivered to borrowers within 24 hours of receipt of their orders. The 350,000 scientific books and 12,000 current periodicals from 109 countries — representing £2 million of stock — are contained on 20 miles of interchangeable shelving. Built with an eye on the future, Britain's National Lending Library will be able to take in its stride the estimated annual increase in scientific literature of 150,000 volumes — the former 60-acre munitions factory has plenty of space for expansion.

Children's Bible Story

By Dorothy Lois Lawton

Jacob Moves To Egypt

After Joseph told his brothers who he was he asked them to go to Jacob.

He said, "Go now to our father. Tell him that I am alive, and that God is helping me to do well. Please ask him to come to live near me so I may take care of all of you. Bring your flocks and everything you have."

Joseph's brothers came with us.

Joseph answered, "I can not come. There are still five more years of famine, so I must stay here to see that everyone gets food."

"Now please go and bring all of your families. I long to see Jacob, my father."

What a happy surprise Jacob had when his sons told him the good news about Joseph. My son is alive," he said. "I will go to see him before I die."

Jacob and his children and grandchildren and all his people with all the flocks moved to Egypt to a place near Joseph, called Goshen.

Joseph took care of his family and all of the people in the land during the famine. God blessed Joseph and gave him two sons called Ephraim and Manasseh.

God blessed Joseph's family, too. They were happy in Egypt, but they longed to go back to their home.

Jacob's people lived in Egypt much longer than the Egyptians. Jacob's people lived in Egypt about four hundred years. Jacob's people kept apart from the Egyptians, who worshipped idols instead of God.

They grew to be a great number as the years went by.

Do you remember the name an angel gave Jacob? It was Israel, Israel's people were called Israelites.

Joseph lived 116 years. All this time, the Egyptians were kind to the Israelites. Then another king or pharaoh made the Israelites living so well in Egypt, and was afraid they would become stronger than the Egyptians. So he did an unkind thing. The new pharaoh made the Israelites build cities for the Egyptians. They had to make brick and build storehouses. Most of their masters were cruel to them.

If you remember Sisy Six, you know that God told Abraham that some of his descendants would be made servants for a long time. God had known this would happen. Abraham was Jacob's grandfather.

Bee 'Civilization' Is Ruthless

To maintain their city, bees tell time, measure distance, solve geometry problems, operate an air conditioning system and even have a highly developed language all their own.

"When a scout bee returns to the hive fairly bursting with good news of a nectar find, it tells the other bees what kind of food is available, its sugar content, how far away it is and in what direction," says Dr. Irwin Moon, director of Moody Institute of Science in West Los Angeles.

Most of this information is conveyed through an intricate figure-eight dance which nearby bees follow with their antennae. In the latest Moody science film, "City of the Bees," the viewer is taught to understand this language of the bees. In fact, man is on the verge of being able to get a message through to the bees by "talking" to them in their own language.

Agriculturists are beginning to appreciate the economic value of the bee, not only as honey producer but, more important, as pollinator.

If some catastrophe destroyed all the bees on our planet, some 100,000 species of plants would disappear and man would be hard put to eke out a living. In fact, crops have been increased 1000-fold simply by placing many hives of bees nearby.

The queen is not only capable of laying twice her weight in eggs in a single day, but she can control the sex of her babies as well. The unfertilized eggs become drones whose sole purpose is to impregnate the queen. The fertilized eggs develop into workers endowed with expert skills in a succession of such diverse jobs as janitor, nurse, builder, policeman, air-conditioning engineer and field bee, or forager.

Man has often compared the efficiency and order of the hive with the confusion and chaos characterizing his own society. Some have even gone so far as to advocate that man pattern his society after that of the bees.

However, some of the bee's solutions may not be very attractive to man. In the hive there is no unemployment because of rigid population control, no old-age problems because the foragers literally work themselves to a premature death. The queen and drones are killed as soon as their usefulness has passed.

The efficiency of the hive is an utterly ruthless one in which the state is everything. The individual is nothing. "Suggesting that man follow such a system," says Dr. Moon, "is a direct outgrowth of the view that man is nothing but a beefsteak with a nervous system!"

Small Fry Humor

Small Fry can be astonishingly practical at times.

My daughter, who lives in Revelstoke, read the poem Humpty Dumpty to her four-year-old daughter one day and then explained to her that the reason they could not put Humpty Dumpty together again was that he was an egg.

My small granddaughter gravely considered the problem for a minute and then demanded: "Why didn't they hard boil him?"

This sample of Small Fry Humor wins this week's prize of five dollars for Mrs. Isabel McKie of Kinross, Alberta. All Small Fry Humor entries must be original.

Dishwashing Goes Scientific, Tricks Will Make It Easier

Did you ever have a really successful party — wonderful food, clever conversation and parting such sweet sorrows? And after the last good night, you slipped back to the kitchen for a snack before turning in, switched on the light and... surprise! There was a mountain of soiled dishes in the sink, on the work counters and in the stove. It was a time of decision.

You could have done several things. Run away to the woods and have the RCMP look for you... or turned the light out on the whole mess and gone to bed... or you could have followed the advice of the National Sanitary Supply Association and got a refuse container and started scraping. That's dishes.

This may seem difficult at first, but according to NSSA, the sooner you start to scrape and rinse your dishes, the easier and quicker it will be to clean them. If you turn out the light and go to bed, the food will be baked on the dishes in the morning. It'll take you much longer to remove the hardened food, plus the additional danger of chipping or cracking your fine china from scrubbing with abrasives.

TIME - SAVING TRICKS

What's the proper procedure? First, soak your silverware in hot water and a small amount of detergent. It reduces the silver washing job by half. While the silver is soaking, the cooking utensils and dishes should be carefully scraped. Removing as many food particles during the scraping operations will keep the dish - water cleaner and will reduce the amount of cleaning agent needed for efficient washing.

Scraping may be done with a brush, rubber squeegee or by hand - never with silverware! Avoid the use of any harsh abrasive material in scraping, although it may seem faster at the time. The scratching will eventually remove the china's glaze, allowing soil and bacteria to penetrate the pores of the dish.

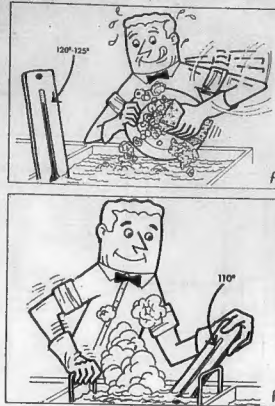

Scraping should be followed immediately by rinsing with 110 degrees F. water which removes food particles and grease. Rinsing can be done most effectively when a hose and spray nozzle are used. The water pressure should be sufficient to rinse thoroughly without splashing.

During the rinse, sort and stack the dishes according to size and kind. Organizing your work increases efficiency, reduces the time and effort.

SOAK 'EM AND BOIL!

You will also discover that a few dishes and possibly serving bowls won't rinse properly. Don't try to rub the hardened soil off - let it soak off! If your pans have burnt or baked - on grates or foods, cover the portion with water, set it on the burner and bring the water to a boil. It's surprising how quickly these residues are softened. In the meantime, cut yourself a piece of cake and think about the party.

After you've scraped, rinsed, soaked and boiled, you are ready to breathe through the dishes. Prepare the wash water as the professionals do. Read the cleaning manufacturer's directions, then follow them exactly - in many quarts of water at 125 degrees F. and so many sponges of detergent.

The glasses come first. The biggest boon to glass washing is the twin brush washer used behind soda fountains and bars. With three or four twists of the wrist, a glass is cleaned inside and out. Place glasses open and on a rack. When finished, spray hot water inside, turn them over, spray outside and the job is done.

The pre-soaked silver is next. A soft nylon brush or sponge will do the job. In case of the hot water and detergent, however, rubbing is essential to remove all food deposits. To sanitize, the National Sanitary Supply Association suggests a chemical sanitizing solution, or immersing the silver in 190 degrees F. water in a clean kettle for 30 seconds. The water is then poured off and the silver placed on a cloth or paper towel to dry, or put in a plastic rack - handles up - to drain dry.

HEAT TO SANITIZE

Dishes are washed on both sides and set up in a rack. When the rack is filled, the dishes can be sanitized by submergence for 30 seconds in 190 degrees F. water or by chemical sanitizers. After removing the dishes, let the heat of the water or sanitizing solution and the moving air will dry them in a few minutes.

When the dishes are dry they should be stacked and stored in a clean, dry place with a minimum of hand contact on the sanitized surfaces. Careless handling may result in contamination. Also, moisture should not be allowed to remain on the dishes when stored because it provides an excellent breeding area for bacteria.

Pots and pans are the last step in the proof that a slick in time saves nine. Adequate soaking or boiling has softened the baked-on food. A metal scraper followed by a steel wool pad will complete the operation quickly. The utensils are rinsed and then placed in the wash water at a temperature of about 125 degrees F. A suitable cleaner, made especially for pots and pans, will make the washing easier and do a better job. After a thorough brushing, rinse with boiling water and there you are... ready for another party or - pleasant dreams!

50th Anniversary 4-H Clubs 60 Countries Adopt Manitoba-Born Idea

An idea born 50 years ago in Manitoba has become one of the world's most important organizations of young people, for today the 4-H Clubs of 60 countries throughout the world represent the vow of each young member who pledges:

My Head to clearer thinking,
My Heart to greater loyalty,
My Hands to larger service,
My Health to better living,
for my club, my community,
and my country.

From the 472 members of 4-H that initial year, membership in the movement has grown to 72,000 from coast to coast in Canada. From those early beginnings of exhibits of chickens, potatoes and corn produced by the members, 4-H activities have broadened to include many fields of endeavor: the production of swine, seed grain, flocks, gardens, footstuffs, beef and dairy calves, being some of them. Additionally the 4-H program includes housewife skills for the girls, such as: bookkeeping and cooking and for all members there is a broad program of public speaking, international affairs, parliamentary procedure and many other forms of citizenship-building activity.

A Canadian Council on 4-H clubs, guiding the movement towards the achievement of this principle and the maintenance of the aims of the pledge was formed in 1931 as a non-profit incorporated organization designed to coordinate the programs in the provinces. The council is maintained by members from the ten provinces, the Canada Department of Agriculture and a broad representation of business and agricultural groups.

Provincially, 4-H club work is the responsibility of the departments of agriculture with the exception of two provinces: in Saskatchewan it is looked after by the university extension department and in Newfoundland by the provincial department of education.

DELEGATES TO U.S.

One recent example of the extent to which the 4-H organization affects the young members' endeavors was a trip to Washington, D.C. to the 33rd National 4-H Club Conference. Ten delegates, one from each province, were selected from thousands of eligible candidates for their outstanding personal qualities and high standards of achievement in 4-H work.

The ten young people assembled in Ottawa in mid-April and together journeyed to the U.S. capital city where they took part in several special ceremonies, including a goodwill presentation to Dean Rust, U.S. Secretary of State, commemorating 50 years of 4-H in Canada.

New York was one stop on the trip where a United Nations tour formed part of the itinerary and where delegates learned about the World Freedom From Hunger Campaign in which Canada's 4-H club members are participating this year.

In Washington the provincial representatives joined 200 top ranking U.S. 4-H members in an intensive round of meetings, discussion groups, conferences, ceremonies, luncheons and banquets.

GIFT TO U.S.

Ruth Woods, member of a sewing group in South Edmonton, was chosen to present a magnificent beaver pelt inscribed with the 4-H emblem to Dean Rust on behalf of her fellow 4-H Canadians.

A signal honor bestowed upon this organization in its 50th year was announced in April when His Excellency, the Governor General of Canada and Madame Viscount granted patronage to the Canadian Council of 4-H clubs.

Club members of earlier years, now in their adult years, are active in community work, in industrial leadership and in the broad field of agriculture, setting a fine example for their younger followers in this splendid nation-wide movement that has achieved great international stature only half a century from its small but proudly enthusiastic beginnings in the Canadian west.

SPECIAL MESSAGE

In a special 50th anniversary message to readers of RURAL ALBERTA, James D. Moore, manager of the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs writes from Ottawa:

"The drama of the growth and development of 4-H clubs in Canada began in the year 1913 with the formation of eight boys' and girls' farm clubs in the municipalities surrounding the town of Roland, Manitoba. From this group of enthusiastic young future farmers the movement has grown to numbers from Newfoundland to Vancouver Island. In the year 1913 and for the next nine years Canada's remaining provinces organized similar clubs.

"The establishment of a Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs took place when representatives of business and agriculture met

As inscribed Alberta beaver pelt to held by Ruth Woods of South Edmonton. On behalf of her fellow Canadian 4-H members she will present it to Dean Rust of the U.S. government. It will be accompanied by a scroll now being signed by Hon. Harry Brown, Alberta Minister of Agriculture while Hon. Norman McEwen, Minister of Lands and Forests looks on.

to formulate what is now looked upon as another milestone in the history of the movement.

"This unique team of government and industry has achieved national stature by working together towards a single, broadly defined objective, that of furthering the education of rural young people in an unquestionably practical method — or, as the 4-H motto goes, 'Learn to do by doing.'

"The kinds of contributions made by both industry and government would take volumes to outline. No contributions can be overestimated and gauged because it has been small. From a local merchant who donates a trophy for showmanship to the 'best calf' to the combined effort of organizing and financing the annual trip for 140 members to the National 4-H Club Week meetings, each has

Swine Club In 1917 Start Of Alta. 4-H

By C. L. USHER

Department of Agriculture

The story of 4-H in Alberta dates back to the spring of 1917. At that time, W. J. Elliott, who had been principal of the School of Agriculture at Olds during the winter term, decided to supplement the school farm program, started in 1913, by organizing a boys' and girls' swine club. His objective was to help upgrade the quality of swine raised in the area. Each member was to buy two registered gilts with financial assistance from the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. A total of 24 members enrolled in that first club and so successful was the venture that the following year there were 15 clubs with a membership of 225 young farm people.

The year 1917 also saw the start of girls' club work in the Vermilion and Clareholm areas, promoted by the home economics instructors at the schools of agriculture. Girls eight years-of-age and older

The first Farm Boys' Camp was set up in 1926 by the Vegreville Exhibition Association at its annual fair and at the camp instruction was given by the district agriculturist in swine, beef and dairy cattle holding. This was the start of a fair camp program which expanded rapidly and is still carried on today.

SCHOOL FAIRS

During the 1920s the school fair program continued to grow in Alberta. By 1931 it had reached its high point of 139 fairs involving 35,270 pupils with over 100,000 exhibits. By 1934 there were 56 swine clubs in Alberta with a membership of 1,274.

The building of theme displays first occurred in the 1920s and they appeared at school fairs, county and local fairs, reaching into the Class 'A' fair circuit with prizes in juxtapositional competition.

PROGRAMS EXPANDED

Significant developments in the past three years include a provincial project book competition, greatly increased emphasis on public speaking, projects in sweet corn, sugar beets and horticulture and the establishment of campus 4-H clubs at the schools of agriculture.

To generalize on recent developments it could be said that the main emphasis in 4-H the past 12 years has been on expanding the program to meet the felt needs and wants of the young people concerned and providing qualified leadership to carry out the program. 4-H today is assisting in the development of members to their fullest potential. This is being done through a well balanced "learn by doing" program. The program is still basically built around agricultural and home economics projects but included also is training in any of the fundamental principles of good citizenship and leaders in all walks of life.

IT IS INTERESTING to learn that among Alberta's teen-age daughters there are many, many potential top-rate cooks. In the first national baking championships for teen-age girls ever held in Canada designed to give encouragement and recognition to the baking skills and knowledge of young Canadians, Alberta regional winners were: Janet Allen, Peace River; Caroline Anderson, Milo; Diana Aronson, Stony Plain; Rhonda Asley, Killam; Candice Burt, Hobbema; Ruth Barkman, Sherburne; Christina Bachert, Viking; Marie Bertwell, Elk Valley; Audrey Blom, Olds; Cheryl Bonorch, Fort Saskatchewan; Sandra Cookman, Loughheed; Edna Dawson, Whitehorse, Yukon; Stella Dent, Markerville.

IN TORFILD a double celebration culminated from a spelling improvement program conducted at the local school. On April 20 the whole plan ended in a community spelling contest, "town vs gown". Ten interested members of the community met to challenge ten students with the highest spelling marks from junior high to high school for team prizes given by The Torfild Mercury.

On April 30 the achievement and improvement awards were presented in the main gym. Those who gained five, 10 or 15 words on the Schenck tests received recognition. Extra recognition was given to Wayne Baergen and Phyllis Reebing who raised their scores by 18 words and to children who achieved a score superior for their grade.

Unfortunately, since Rural Alberta goes to press before the results of the interesting competition are carried in the next edition of The Mercury, all that can be given at the time of writing are the names of the community contestants who were: Mrs. J. E. Stinson, Graham Allen, Mrs. W. McDaniel, Henry Schroeder, Mrs. Don Hardy, Lester Severn, Mrs. Leonard Steiner and J. Voegtlin.

Students accepting the challenge were: Lorraine Allen, Doreen Schultz, David Severson, Glen Windsor, Henry Schroeder, Elaine Baergen, Linda Schacher, Rosemary Hallett, Clara Scott and Phyllis Knutson.

D.V. Delegates Attend Meeting Drayton Valley Fair

Delegates from the Drayton Valley Chamber of Commerce attended the Alberta Chambers of Commerce Annual Conference held in the Macdonald Hotel Monday and Tuesday, May 27 and 28. For the Monday session W. Johnson and A. Playford were on hand and on the Tuesday session Mr. Johnson was again present with Mr. Jack Argent, who also was present as a delegate from the local group.

The Drayton Valley delegation was particularly concerned with the David Thompson - Howe route highway resolution. The resolution was subject to be brought up and no vote was taken until the morning session on Tuesday. There, as might be expected a mighty battle took place for when the David Thompson Highway resolution was brought to the floor a delegate from Jasper jumped to the microphone to bring in an amendment which in effect would encapsulate the original motion, as the Jasper delegate proposed an amendment which read in effect: "that action would be started on David Thompson-Howe Pass AFTER the Yellowhead was completed". Of course this set off a storm of discussion, both pro and con, but it was very evident that the Howe Pass route had gained some very powerful support, solidly lined up with it were such big names as "The City of Edmonton, The Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, The Calgary Chamber of Commerce, and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, which latter had been sitting on the fence. Other supporters, as well as the Central Alberta Chambers of Commerce and Drayton Valley, included a powerful group from the Peace River district, who recognized the advantages of such an easy and direct route to the coast for the Peace River country.

The upshot of all the discussion was that a motion to table the motion for this year was finally passed and the matter was tabled, which put the Howe Pass group proponents in a very fine position, as they certainly knew how many groups are supporting the route and the project gained some invaluable publicity as the result of the heated discussion. Tabled the matter can rest until next year's Conference and in the meantime work can be carried on, and doubtless will be carried on, in bringing the Howe Pass route to fruition. It leaves the Yellowhead route supporters without a single advantage gained, while the Howe Pass group has made extremely important gains. When brought up the year before it had been brought up as the David Thompson Highway, but since in the past year research on the Howe Pass had added an explosive measure to the reputation, since, with the addition of the Howe Pass project, the route now becomes an access route to the sea, of interprovincial and federal interest, instead of being purely provincial as was the David Thompson Highway, as such.
